INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE NIGHT

LEARNING COMMONS

Is being a full-time student in another country right for you?

For some, it's a chance to experience a new way of learning. For others, it's about experiencing new places and a new culture. And for certain students, it's an opportunity to get a degree in less time than it usually takes in the United States.

For an array of reasons, more than 40,000 American students each year pursue a full-degree program overseas.

The Academy of the Holy Angels is pleased to present an International College Night for students and families interested in learning more about collegiate studies abroad. Is it right for you? What is the application process and how do you become a competitive applicant? What does it mean to have an international degree?

Please join us as we present a panel of representatives from the following international institutions:

American University in Paris

France

John Cabot University

Italy

McGill University

University College Dublin

University of Glasgow
